Biography

Kenneth L. Dorman was born near Ailsa Craig, Ontario, Canada in 1913. He attended local schools before attending London South Collegiate Institution and one year of pre-med at the University of Michigan in 1932. Dorman worked as an assistant to the legislative representative for the A & P Company and the Pontiac Motor Car Division of General Motors. From 1934-1939 he worked at the Lincoln Division of the Ford Motor Company before enlisting with the Army Air Corps Reserves and serving in England during World War II. After returning home, he and his family moved to Michigan's Upper Peninsula where he quickly became involved in local development projects. In addition to forming the first public relations and advertising company in the Upper Peninsula, Kenman Associates, he also reorganized the failing Upper Peninsula Development Bureau and created the Upper Michigan Tourist Association which he ran for twelve years. Dorman also served as legislative aide to State Representative Dominic Jacobetti from 1970 through 1988. He was the U. P. director of the "Keep Michigan Beautiful" from its inception and was involved with numerous civic organizations and veterans groups including Portage Post VFW 1292. Ken Dorman passed away in 1999.
